Volunteer Roles

Super Scooper

If you're from Brisvegas, you know that an iconic Ekka Strawberry Sundae is not just any old sundae. We need Super Scoopers to bring this delicious piece of goodness to life. From scooping ice-cream, washing and chopping strawberries, serving customers or cleaning and stocking, it's all hands on deck to make these iconic treats.

OR

Cashier

Do your employees have cash handling experience? If so, this is the role for them! Cashier volunteers will be taking orders and handling customer payments. They work closely with Super Scoopers to ensure sundaes are served with a smile!

Registering a team is easy!

About The Common Good

The Common Good is an initiative of The Prince Charles Hospital and was established to help people live healthier for longer by supporting life-saving medical research.

Supporting Australia's largest cardio-thoracic hospital, we work closely with our clinicians and researchers to understand what they need to have a tangible impact where it counts most. Our research is conducted out of labs based in The Prince Charles Hospital in Brisbane, Queensland. The impacts of our research, however, ripple right across Australia and the world.

Our biggest challenge is sustaining the work of our brilliant researchers who rely almost solely on the generosity of public support. 90% of research projects run out of funding before they are completed – that's where The Common Good comes in.

Our core areas of research include heart disease, lung disease, mental health, and dementia – conditions that sadly affect 90% of our community.
